..... Editorial

The editorial team would also welcome articles from the intellectuals, professionals and faculty members and also the critical and appreciative comments to bring the journal lively. There are number of other barriers to the quality. The content of the article is the sole responsibility of the researcher. However, events such as conferences and other platforms offer them opportunities to refine their works. Thus, it has been important to develop these ancillary services if we really want to uplift the quality of academic research.

Moreover, the editorial team tried to make inclusive by capturing the articles of authors from various segment and identity which is beauty of this journal. Whatever the difficulties, it is hoped that the result will pay off.

We pledge, on our part, to work proactively to enhance the quality of our journal and request our reviewers and contributors to support us in our perseverance to quality in research and its dissemination. As always, we humbly request readers for critical comments and valuable suggestions for the improvement of quality of the Journal in the days to come.

The Vol. V, No. issue of "Dibyajyoti journal", although it is late to come, is ready now for catering the need of this time from Dibyajyoti Multiple Campus, Bardaghat.
